Mining in Guyana

Guyana is a parliamentary-style democracy-based English speaking country. Guyana has demonstrated itself to be a mining-friendly and stable democratic country toward direct foreign investments in the mining sector. The Land Tenure Act, legal statutes and the legal system are based on the Roman Dutch Laws modified by British Common Laws. Guyana has well developed and uniformly administered tax laws, mining laws and general business systems, especially geared toward the mining sector that includes duty and tax-free imports for mining and forestry equipment.

Several major and successful natural resource deposits have been commissioned by foreign investors including (Omai Gold Mines) - IamGold Inc., (Aurora gold deposit) - Guyana Goldfields Inc., (Arorima Bauxite Mine) - United Company Rusal of Russia and (Guymine Bauxite Mine) - Bosai Mineral of China.

There are also a number of Canadian junior exploration companies operating in Guyana including Sandspring Resources, Shoreham Resources, GMV Minerals, Gold Port Resources and First Bauxite Inc.
